Zhāng Jī's Preface	27
I. Greater Yáng Disease	33
1. Overview	33
1.1 Signs and Pulses	34
1.2 Treatment	35
1.3 Schematic Overview	37
2. Essential Features of Greater Yáng Disease	41
2.1 Identification of Disease Passage and Periods of Resolution	52
2.2 Section Appendix: Periods of Resolution for the Six Channels	55
3. Basic Greater Yáng Disease Patterns	58

Magnolia Bark, Fresh Ginger, Pinellia, Licorice, and Ginseng Decoction Patterns	176
Minor Center-Fortifying Decoction Patterns	178
Cinnamon Twig and Ginseng Decoction Patterns	179
4.6.4 Kidney Yáng Vacuity Patterns	181
Dried Ginger and Aconite Decoction Patterns	181
Poria (Hoelen) Counterflow Cold Decoction Patterns	183
True Warrior Decoction Patterns	185
4.7 Yīn and Yáng Vacuity Patterns	187
4.7.1 Licorice and Dried Ginger Decoction Patterns and Pe- ony and Licorice Decoction Patterns	187
4.7.2 Peony, Licorice, and Aconite Decoction Patterns	190
4.7.3 Honey-Fried Licorice Decoction Patterns	191
4.8 Water Amassment Patterns	194
4.9 Blood Amassment Patterns	202
4.10 Chest Bind Patterns	210
4.10.1 Heat Repletion Chest Bind Patterns	212
Major Chest Bind Pill Patterns	212
Major Chest Bind Decoction Patterns	215
Minor Chest Bind Decoction Patterns	222
4.10.2 Cold Repletion Chest Bind Patterns	223
4.11 Storehouse Bind Patterns	225
4.12 Glomus Patterns	228
4.12.1 Heat Glomus Patterns	230
Rhubarb and Coptis Heart-Draining Decoction Patterns	230
Aconite Heart-Draining Decoction Patterns	233
4.12.2 Cold-Heat Complex Glomus Patterns	234
Pinellia Heart-Draining Decoction Patterns	234
Fresh Ginger Heart-Draining Decoction Patterns	237
Licorice Heart-Draining Decoction Patterns	239
4.12.3 Severe Patterns of Efflux Desertion, Glomus, and Di- arrhea Affecting the Lower Burner (Halloysite and Limonite Decoction Patterns)	242
4.12.4 Water Glomus Patterns (Poria Five Powder Patterns)	244
4.12.5 Phlegm Qì Glomus Patterns (Inula and Hematite De- coction Patterns)	245
4.13 Upper Burner Heat and Lower Burner Cold Patterns: Coptis Decoction Patterns	247
4.14 Adverse Treatment by Fire Patterns	249
4.15 Recovery Pattern Identification	258
5. Patterns Similar to Greater Yáng Disease	263
5.1 Ten Jujubes Decoction Patterns	263

5.2 Melon Stalk Powder Patterns	266
6. Chapter Appendix	267
II. Yáng Brightness Disease	297
1. Overview	297
1.1 Signs	298
1.2 Treatment	299
1.3 Schematic Overview	300
2. Essential Features of Yáng Brightness Disease	301
2.1 Causes and Pathomechanisms	302
2.2 Pulses and Signs	308
3.1 Heat Patterns	312
3.1.1 Gardenia and Fermented Soybean Decoction Patterns	312
3.1.2 White Tiger Decoction Patterns	316
3.1.3 White Tiger Decoction Plus Ginseng Patterns	320
3.1.4 Polyporus Decoction Patterns	324
3.2 Repletion Patterns	327
3.2.1 Qì-Coordinating Decoction Patterns	327
Stomach-Regulating Qì-Coordinating Decoction Patterns	327
Minor Qì-Coordinating Decoction Patterns	331
Major Qì-Coordinating Decoction Patterns	336
3.2.2 Moistening and Enema Patterns	351
3.2.3 Precipitation Pattern Identification	356
3.2.4 Contraindications for Precipitation	363
4. Yáng Brightness Disease and Transmuted Patterns	367
4.1 Yellowing Patterns	367
4.2 Blood Heat Patterns	376
5. Yáng Brightness Disease Pattern Identification	382
5.1 Differentiation of Wind Strike and Cold Strike Patterns	382
5.2 Differentiation of Vacuity and Repletion Patterns	388
6. Chapter Appendix	393
III. Lesser Yáng Disease	403
1. Overview	403
1.1 Pulses and Signs	404
1.2 Treatment	405
1.3 Schematic Overview	406
2. Essential Features of Lesser Yáng Disease	407
3. Basic Lesser Yáng Disease Patterns	410
3.1 Minor Bupleurum Decoction Patterns	410
3.2 Contraindications for Minor Bupleurum Decoction	426

4. Lesser Yáng Disease and Transmuted Patterns	428
4.1 Treatment Principles for Transmuted Patterns	428
4.2 Bupleurum and Cinnamon Twig Decoction Patterns	429
4.3 Major Bupleurum Decoction Patterns	431
4.4 Bupleurum Decoction Plus Mirabilite Patterns	434
4.5 Bupleurum, Cinnamon Twig and Dried Ginger Decoction Patterns	437
4.6 Bupleurum Decoction Plus Dragon Bone and Oyster Shell Patterns	439
4.7 Disease Passage and Prognosis	442
4.8 Section Appendix: Heat Entering the Blood Chamber	444
5. Chapter Appendix	448
IV. Greater Yīn Disease	451
1. Overview	451
1.1 Pulses and Signs	451
1.2 Treatment	452
1.3 Schematic Overview	452
2. Essential Features of Greater Yīn Disease	453
2.1 Period of Resolution for Greater Yīn Disease	454
3. Basic Greater Yīn Disease Patterns	455
4. Greater Yīn Disease and Transmuted Patterns	456
4.1 Greater Yīn Disease and Exterior Patterns	456
4.2 Greater Yīn Abdominal Pain Patterns	457
4.3 Greater Yīn Disease Shifting to Recovery and Shifting into Yáng Brightness	461
V. Lesser Yīn Disease	465
1. Overview	465
1.1 Pulses and Signs	465
1.2 Treatment	467
1.3 Schematic Overview	468
2. Essential Features of Lesser Yīn Disease	469
2.1 Primary Pulse and Signs of Cold Transformation Patterns	469
2.2 Contraindications for the Treatment of Lesser Yīn Disease	474
3. Basic Lesser Yīn Disease Patterns	475
3.1 Cold Transformation Patterns	475
3.1.1 Counterflow Cold Decoction Patterns	475
3.1.2 Vessel-Freeing Counterflow Cold Decoction Patterns	478
3.1.3 Scallion [Yáng-]Freeing Decoction and Scallion [Yáng-]Freeing Decoction Plus Pig's Bile Patterns	480
3.1.4 True Warrior Decoction Patterns	483
3.1.5 Aconite Decoction Patterns	486
3.1.6 Evodia Decoction Patterns	489

3.1.7 Peach Blossom Decoction Patterns	490
3.1.8 Needling and Moxibustion	493
3.1.9 Prognosis	495
Treatable Patterns of Yáng Return and Spontaneous Recovery	495
Untreatable Patterns of Yáng Collapse	498
3.2 Heat Transformation Patterns	502
3.2.1 Coptis and Ass Hide Glue Decoction Patterns	502
3.2.2 Polyporous Decoction Patterns	504
4. Lesser Yīn Disease and Transmuted Patterns	506
4.1 Ephedra, Aconite, and Asarum Decoction Patterns	506
4.2 Urgent Precipitation	509
4.3 Counterflow Cold Powder Patterns	511
4.4 Patterns of Heat Shifting into the Bladder	513
4.5 Patterns of Fluid Damage and Blood Stirring	514
5. Sore Throat Patterns	516
5.1 Pig Skin Decoction Patterns	516
5.2 Licorice Decoction and Platycodon Decoction Patterns	517
5.3 Vinegar Decoction Patterns	518
5.4 Pinellia Powder and Decoction Patterns	520
6. Chapter Appendix	521
VI. Reverting Yīn Disease	523
1. Overview	523
1.1 Treatment	523
1.2 Schematic Overview	524
2. Essential Features of Reverting Yīn Disease	526
3. Upper Heat and Lower Cold Patterns	527
3.1 Mume Pill Patterns	527
3.2 Dried Ginger, Scutellaria, Coptis, and Ginseng Decoction Patterns	530
3.3 Ephedra and Cimicifuga Decoction Patterns	532
4. Differentiation of Overcoming or Relapse in Reversal Heat Patterns . .	534
5. Identification of Reversal Patterns	541
5.1 Pathomechanism and Special Signs of Reversal Patterns	542
5.2 Heat Reversal	543
5.3 Cold Reversal	546
5.3.1 Reversal from Yáng Vacuity and Exuberant Cold	546
5.3.2 Reversal from Blood Vacuity and Congealed Cold	547
5.3.3 Reversal from Cold Bind in the Lower Burner	551
5.3.4 Reversal Patterns and Moxibustion	551
5.4 Other Reversal Patterns	552

5.4.1 Phlegm Reversal	552
5.4.2 Water Reversal	553
5.5 Contraindications for the Treatment of Reversal Patterns	554
6. Identification of Diarrhea Patterns	557
7. Identification of Retching and Hiccup Patterns	564
7.1 Identification of Retching Patterns	564
7.2 Identification of Hiccup Patterns	567
8. Prognosis	569
8.1 Identification of Signs of Recovery in Cold Patterns	569
8.2 Identification of Signs of Impending Death in Vacuity Cold Patterns	570
8.3 Identification of Scenarios in Vacuity Cold Diarrhea Patterns	576
9. Chapter Appendix	578
VII. Sudden Turmoil	581
VIII. Yīn-Yáng Exchange and Taxation Relapse	595
1. Overview	595
2. Yīn-Yáng Exchange	596
3. Taxation Relapse	598
